

Lady of the Fountain

A magical retelling of an old Welsh wonder tale by singer and storyteller Cath Little

"I see the Lady of the Fountain
She seems to me contented
She wreathes her hands in living water
And her hair is all of silver."

This is a story for adults but children will enjoy its enchantment too. Suitable for intimate theatre spaces, community venues, water and well sites, gardens or café style events.

This old Welsh wonder tale, one of the Native Tales of Wales comes from the court of King Arthur and Queen Guinevere and it wants to be heard. It tells of a journey to the Fountain, source of the water of life.

The quest is as old as the hills but has meaning now. Can you travel to the source of all and come back sane? Can you win love and keep it? Can you be true to the one you love and still be true to yourself?

"Things one hears are lost unless they are understood by the heart." ~ Chrétien de Troyes

Cath Little finds meaning for now in this strange myth from the dawn-time of the Welsh people. She weaves the story with song and silver music from her lyre strings.

"Cath Little is a storyteller and singer drawing inspiration from her Welsh homeland. She has a rich sense of the magic of stories and their ability to connect us to one another"
